

You are beautiful,
my sister!

I LOOK IN THE MIRROR!

My hair is shiny, my eyes are beautiful!
But what has happened to my radiance?
I look into a great void,
and that makes me afraid!
I see that my skin is pale.
My lips are red and shiny, but my mouth – it doesn't smile anymore.
It tells of contempt, bitterness,
and perhaps even hate.
I'm beautiful, right?
Am I beautiful?
I used to be, back then.
I dare to look a little longer and become sad.
What do I see in my reflection?
What happened to my life?
Where is the joy, the excitement,
the dreams and the desires?
I see the small girl that I once was.
I see the mask – beautiful – fascinating – lifeless!

NOW I LOOK AT YOU, MY SISTER!

You are beautiful, so beautiful!
Your eyes are fascinating,
they shine, but are so sad.

I can feel the sadness,
and I become sad myself.

Your nose is perfect, your lips shine!

What are you saying to me?

Now I see your heart and smile.

I see a young girl, a child.

I see your innocence.

I see so many dreams and so much energy.

I also see your strength, your determination and your courage to fight.

I can see you,
and you touch my heart!

NOW GOD, YOUR HEAVENLY FATHER,
LOOKS AT YOU
